

JPA Partner Schools for Academic Year 2016-2017

JPA has been working in schools for over a decade providing individual and small group therapy, as well as social-emotional programming in classroom settings. Over the last several years, JPA has also developed services and programs specifically designed to support principals, deans, social workers and teachers. And, of course, JPA collaborates with parents every day and through its parent workshop series!

While many of our school partners over the last ten years have been charter schools, through our recent affiliation with CPS as an approved provider of social, emotional and mental health services to children and professional development for adults, we look forward to developing relationships with additional public schools as well.
