Chicago's Vulnerable Children and Families Thank YOU

This season is a time to take stock, reflect on our successes, and rededicate ourselves to creating a better future. JPA thanks all of our generous donors who supported our work with vulnerable children & families in the past year. You helped us carry on the long tradition of our founder, Jane Addams, who believed that helping these boys and girls in our hometown would ultimately create a stronger, more just society well beyond our neighborhoods. Addams wrote, "The good we secure for ourselves is precarious and uncertain until it is secured for all of us and incorporated into our common life." Your contribution reverberates long after you give. By helping secure that common life. JPA remains dedicated to its founders' faith.

As we wrap up 2017, we hope you enjoy some of the most popular stories you clicked on this past year.

We wish you all the best this holiday season – and thank you for helping Chicago's children when they most need it.

Sincerely,

Karen G. Foley
